

EU Bah Gum! Yorkshire Voices on Brexit

Are you passionate about community voices, have you always wanted to make a film?

Then we need you!

Bradford documentary makers are looking for enthusiastic and socially engaged volunteers to join their film team to work on a short documentary challenging perceived differences within communities through film and conversation on the theme of Brexit.

EU Bah Gum! Yorkshire Voices on Brexit will be a short documentary created by a community team who will travel across the region to engage with members of the public to portray what 'Leave' means to individuals and communities living in the most socio-economically diverse part of the UK. Most importantly questioning how such disparate and dividing views can bring people together to form a new version of British community.

Volunteers will receive training on interview, filming and editing techniques by an experienced team of film makers. This training will happen in Bradford. A series of Brexit Break-up Cafes will be held across the region between June 2018-January 2019. The sessions will be an opportunity for positive engagement between those who have different views on Brexit - broadly between those who support a Remain point of view and those who support the Leave argument, and see if there is any scope for reconciliation.

The aim is to bring people together in dialogue to explore different views on Brexit. These sessions will be filmed, groups and members of the public will be invited to drop-in and share their thoughts and opinions, this is to demonstrate how communities, at grassroots levels, are moving forward and for them to have their voices heard.

The final documentary will be screened at the Delius Arts & Community Centre in Bradford, the week before the official Brexit date, on Thursday 21st March 2019.

The sessions are open to any interested persons in Bradford and will be held over the course of the next 12 months. Previous film experience is NOT required, we are looking for a breadth of skills and experience. The volunteer trainees will work with three mentors from CameraShy to develop the skills above and will also be subject to peer review and constructive feedback to improve. Refreshments will be provided at each session.
